Have your say: ‘Proposed improvements to Minimum Financial Requirements for licensing in the building and construction industry’ discussion paper

Purpose

To advise of the opportunity to provide feedback on a discussion paper regarding proposed improvements to the Minimum Financial Requirements (MFR) for licensing within the building and construction industry.

Background

High-profile insolvencies and corporate collapses in Queensland’s building and construction industry have had wide-ranging financial and social impacts.

The Building Industry Fairness (Security of Payment) Act 2017 (BIF Act), enacted on 10 November 2017, is a package of reforms to provide Queensland with Australia’s strongest security of payment regime.

One of these reforms is to restore the effectiveness of the MFR for licensing.

The MFR are intended to help Queensland’s building regulator, the Queensland Building and Construction Commission (QBCC), identify applicants or licensees who may not be operating a financially sustainable business so that the QBCC can take appropriate—and early—action.

The current MFR do not provide the QBCC with sufficient or regular information about a licensee’s financial situation.

Through the Queensland Building Plan (QBP), the Queensland Government committed to ‘create new laws that strengthen the MFR and enable the QBCC to better regulate those requirements’.

The BIF Act includes a legislative head of power for the MFR to be prescribed in regulation. Prescribing the MFR by regulation returns accountability for the security of payment regime to Queensland Parliament.

Prior to prescribing the MFR in a regulation, a range of proposed improvements to the MFR are being investigated with feedback sought from the building and construction industry and wider community.

Discussion paper

The discussion paper outlines proposals for improvements to the MFR in five key areas:

- introducing risk-based, targeted annual reporting requirements
- fostering improved accountancy practices that meet the objectives of the MFR
- ensuring forms of assurance can provide financial security
- ensuring funds from related entity loans can be readily accessed
- clarifying definitions and requirements for the calculation of assets.

We want to hear from the building and construction industry, accountants, lawyers and other interested parties about the likely effectiveness and impacts of each of the proposals.
